What is CEDAM?

Community economic development is local action that creates economic opportunities, improves social conditions, and promotes sustainability, particularly for those who are most disadvantaged. At the Community Economic Development Association of Michigan (CEDAM), we represent the interests of organizations engaged in community economic development across Michigan.

CEDAM is a statewide 501(c)(3) membership organization. Founded in 1998, CEDAM advances community-based economic development to revitalize and rebuild Michigan communities and neighborhoods. We are the unified voice of our member organizations and generate resources through advocacy and collaboration. We build and sustain our members through training, technical assistance, and opportunities to share best practices.

Who are CEDAM members?

Our members strengthen communities and improve lives in rural and urban areas throughout the state. They invest in people and the communities in which they live. Members provide housing opportunities and keep families in their homes. They meet basic needs. They connect people to jobs. They promote local business. They create and restore vital spaces. They do all of this and more.

"I appreciate everything that CEDAM has done for my organization. I always get the latest information and I feel connected in a way that I never did before."

— Gail Ross
Hancock Housing Foundation
